Use this continuing Access from AT&T partnership as a chapter Community Service project: Promoting Affordable Internet Access

We are excited to announce a continuing partnership with the Access from AT&T that you can use as a Community Service project AND an opportunity for your chapter to earn cash! FCCLA is partnering with AT&T again this year to bring affordable internet access to low-income families in 21 states across the country. This is a terrific Community Service project that benefits everyone involved.

Participating chapters are asked to hold one promotional event, where you distribute informational flyers in your community at local grocery stores, SNAP and Welfare offices, etc., promote this opportunity on Social Media, and keep track of your outreach efforts. You will receive a free toolkit from FCCLA with promotional materials and information for successful completion of this project. The first 50 chapters to sign up, participate and submit a brief report of their activities will receive $250. To participate, first take a look to see if your chapter is within the 21 states AT&T Access is available. <http://digitalyou.att.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/ATT-21-State-Service-Area.pdf> If yes, you can sign up to participate here: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/ATT_Opt_In Questions? FCCLA Awarded NHTSA Grant to Promote Seat belt Safety in Middle Schools

FCCLA is excited to announce a new two-year program to promote seat belt safety among rural middle school youth with a grant from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). The new campaign, entitled "iBuckleUp weBuckleUp", will inform youth (specifically rural, middle school youth and parents) about seat belt safety and will create a positive community effort to encourage everyone to wear their seat belts. The campaign will highlight the need for drivers and passengers to be sure everyone in their car uses their seat belt on every trip, even if it is the passenger reminding the driver to buckle up. During the first year of the grant (2017-18 school year), FCCLA will convene a Fall summit that will gather 10 committed teams from rural areas including advisers, parents, and middle level members to create a group of trainers that will be committed to launching an iBuckleUp weBuckleUp campaign in their state. During the second year (2018-19 school year), FCCLA will encourage middle school chapters across the country to get involved in the campaign. <http://fcclainc.org/programs/ibuckleup-webuckleup.php>
