RATIONALE FOR FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES

Today's students are the future leaders and members of tomorrow's families, workplaces, and communities. They need to develop the social, emotional and character maturity to be able to act responsibly and productively to synthesize knowledge from multiple sources, to work cooperatively, and to apply the highest standards in all aspects of their lives. Family plays a very important role in our individual lives and in society and is widely recognized as the context in which its members learn about relation to and caring for others, acquire attitudes about learning and work, build communication and reasoning skills, learn right from wrong, and form patterns of responsible citizenship. Family members learn to work together within the family and with other families to improve conditions in the home, workplace, community, and world. Vision and Mission — A Foundation for FCS Standards The vision and mission statements have been widely publicized and utilized and have made significant impact on the directions taken by Family and Consumer Sciences curriculum and program development at the national, state, and local levels. Family and Consumer Sciences Vision Statement: Family and Consumer Sciences empowers individuals and families across the life span to manage the challenges of living and working in a diverse global society. Our unique focus is on families, work, and their interrelationships.

THE FCS NATIONAL STANDARDS

- A based on knowledge and skills needed for home/ personal and family life as well as those needed to succeed in related careers;
- Develop the context for many of the individual career areas within Family and Consumer Sciences Education (e.g. dietetics, early childhood, facilities maintenance, food service, hospitality, interior design, and so forth);
- Provide an excellent system for meeting the needs of individuals preparing for life in a global society while simultaneously preparing for careers;
- Are comprehensive and collectively provide the structure for an integrated approach to Family and Consumer Sciences Education;
- Adaptable and essential to developing an FCS program framework to meet specific needs and courses of study;
- Address the expectations for quality FCS programs and curriculum design;
- Identify the standards for individual FCS career areas through focused and enhanced content detail and additional direction for specific career paths;
- Apply to all students regardless of age, gender, cultural or ethnic background, disabilities, aspirations, interests or motivations.

The mission of Family and Consumer Sciences Education is to prepare students for family life, work life, and careers in Family and Consumer Sciences by providing opportunities to develop the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors needed for success, including:

- Strengthening the well-being of individuals and families across the life span.
- Becoming responsible citizens and leaders in family, community, and work settings.
- Promoting optimal nutrition and wellness across the life span.
- Managing resources to meet the material needs of individuals and families.
- Balancing personal, home, family, and work lives.
- Using critical and creative thinking skills to address problems in diverse family, community, and work environments.
- Managing life, employment and careers successfully.
- Functioning effectively as providers and consumers of goods and services.
- Appreciating human worth and accepting responsibility for one's actions and success in family and work life.

FCS, like other disciplines, is concerned with the integration of academic knowledge and achievement in a contextual approach. The Family and Consumer Sciences Education National Standards 3.0 form a comprehensive structure designed to accommodate varying state philosophies (e.g. competency-based, conceptual and process perspectives) and multiple issues related to standards and delivery systems. There is wide variation in what, how much, and when concepts in Family and Consumer Sciences Education are introduced to students and in the level of depth to which any particular standard or competency may be developed. Different students will achieve understanding in diverse ways to different degrees of depth and breadth, depending on interest, ability, context, and age of learner. It is expected that delivery will vary; however, inquiry based, project based/problem based instruction with community engagement and real-world applications are embedded.

Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) is considered best practice for the authentic application and demonstration of skills developed through FCS classroom learning.
