Examples of Professional Presentation Projects:

“I addressed the dangers of some commonly used drugs among teenagers. I discussed five different drugs and their side effects with ninth-twelfth graders from my school. The students were very enthusiastic about my presentation and asked very insightful questions.” – Alabama FCCLA Member

“The goal of our project is to bring awareness of the lack of Hispanic diversity in classes leading to career clusters such as science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. We organized three separate meetings with three target audiences to obtain information on creating solutions. We set goals to act out on these solutions going beyond our meetings and address the students’ needs.” – Colorado FCCLA Members

“I presented on the importance of vaccinations to community health. By explaining the history of vaccines, their safety, potential side effects and how they can influence large demographics of people, I hoped to increase overall vaccination rates and thus community health.” – Idaho FCCLA Member

“Our project is about the risks of human trafficking. We have done research regarding human trafficking and found risk factors for it. We have made pamphlets, which include valuable information for the reader and numbers to text or call to receive help in a trafficking situation. We made blue ribbons because blue is the color for human trafficking and are handing them out. Our project will hopefully help many others and ourselves to stay safe from human trafficking.” – Iowa FCCLA Members

“Many teenagers do not know how to budget or have any knowledge about saving for their retirement. Our project will help teenagers understand the importance of saving and investing for their retirement as well as learn how to budget their money.” – Kansas FCCLA Members
